I would like to thank the people who sent the message and commented. I'm sorry I can't answer you personally, but I appreciate all your comments and encouragement. I am very happy to know that my resources have helped you in teaching your children and students. I started making new reading materials for beginner readers of the Philippines a couple of months back and I was unable to post them. I know some of you have been looking for and asking for this kind of material. Now that many students are in the middle of a lockdown community in the Philippines, I think this will be a good time to post some of them. The link below will open the PDF file with a page where you can make a booklet half the size of the letter. You can print them, cut them in half, arrange the pages as you want to punch. Read on Ito? Series: For beginner readers of the Philippines, I want to welcome all new members to my blog. So up for the time I didn't post any worksheets, I'm excited to share with you a new set of Filipino letterwriting sheets. I recently bought a large set of fonts from fonts4teachers.com and some of them have guided arrows for young learners who are just starting to write letters. I use these fonts for writing the sheets I have made. I use the letter Zaner Bloser (straight letter) for the original print, but I also have a letter with the letter D'Nealian (slightly tilted letter). If you need a letter in D'Nealian, please send a message or leave a comment. For my new members, please note that I created these worksheets using Art I bought from teacherspayers.com Read on 2019 Alpabetong Philippines writing sheet this new set of sheets is dedicated to new followers of this blog and those who bought my sheets included.
