Music appreciation class middle school

The top 10 high schools in the USA are some of the most exclusive. That goes without saying. But if you’ve got a bright kid (or indeed you are one), they’re well worth the effort to get in — even if it involves moving out of state.Staten Island Technical High SchoolGranted ‘Specialized High School’ status by the NYC Department of Education, this school has a focus on technology. But its varied curriculum also includes the arts and humanities, as well as sports. There’s also an emphasis on career training through shadowing and internships.Downington S.T.E.M. AcademySTEM stands for science, technology, engineering and mathematics — the foci of this International Baccalaureate World School in Downington, Pennsylvania. Applicants (with teacher recommendations) are required to undertake preparatory courses, submit an essay and attend an interview at the Academy.International AcademyAnother International Baccalaureate (IB) school, Michigan’s International Academy focuses on English, the arts, humanities, education and a second language in addition to STEM subjects. Applicants are selected by lottery.Stanton College Preparatory SchoolIB institutions often appear among the top 10 schools in America, and for good reason too: They have to meet world-class standards. This Blue Ribbon School of Excellence in Jacksonville, Florida boasts a graduation rate of 100 percent.University High SchoolUniversity High School in Tucson, Arizona is specifically geared to preparing students for college. It shares a campus with Rincon High School, where University High School students may attend extra classes. To enroll, applicants must pass the Cognitive Abilities entrance exam with a qualifying score and have an acceptable GPA for the past two semesters.Design and Architecture Senior High SchoolMiami’s design-focused magnet school has an economically diverse student body. Refreshingly, something like 40 percent of those enrolled come from disadvantaged backgrounds. Applicants are required to submit sketchbooks or portfolios and successfully complete an audition — regardless of their desired specialism.Gilbert Classical AcademyHere’s one ‘academy’ that upholds the original meaning of that word. Its curriculum is rooted in the Socratic Method of teaching, emphasizing debate and critical thinking even (or especially) when it contradicts the teacher. Students are also required to complete 80 hours of community service.Liberal Arts and Science Academy High SchoolThis Austin, Texas institution attracts some of the most advanced students from the local area. Courses are project-based and collaborative, preparing students for academic or professional research positions. There are also plenty of clubs.Carnegie Vanguard High SchoolAnother Texas high school, this one in Houston, Carnegie Vanguard boasts a 100 percent Advanced Placement (AP) pass rate. Applicants require a teacher recommendation, transcript and universal assessment scores. But a gifted or talented identification might suffice.Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and TechnologyFor any kid looking to excel in a STEM field, there’s really no better high school in America, reports The Best Schools site. Located in the eco-friendly city of Alexandria, Virginia, TJHSST covers a variety of topics, including artificial intelligence, quantum mechanics and marine biology. Application requirements include an entrance exam, essay, recommendations and a history of academic achievement. They are at an age where they think they know everything and are often difficult to engage in the classroom. If this sounds familiar to you, then why not try teaching music appreciation using the music they like to listen to? Using pop music in the general and middle school music classroom is a great way for students to not only learn how to appreciate music, but also use music terminology and music appreciation vocabulary in a meaningful and relevant way. Including the pop singers that they like to listen to in your music appreciation lessons as an activity or as an assignment, can be a great way to involve students in their learning. To teach music appreciation to your middle schoolers, try using a variety of different resources in your lessons to make learning enjoyable for both you and your students. There are stacks of resources out there to include in your music appreciation curriculum, but if you want a tried and true set of worksheets and activities try some of the ideas in this blog post. Elements of Music Appreciation Terms Before your students can start to appreciate the music selected for analysis, they need to learn and understand music appreciation terminology. A fun and interesting way to do this is to use lesson activities like write the room or music term matching games. Below are links to a couple of resources that will make teaching music appreciation vocabulary a little easier: Elements of Music Terms Matching Games Elements of Music Terms Bundle Both you and your students will find it easier to learn and focus on one Element of Music at a time. Try teaching the individual element, then reinforce it with a variety of activities and listening lessons to give your students to use and apply their newfound knowledge. Pop Music Appreciation Worksheets Once your students have been taught the music vocabulary that they will need, it is time to use with music that they like to listen to. These Pop Music Appreciation Worksheets are a perfect way to do this. In the Bundle are 24 different Pop Singers to choose from and use with your middle school and general music students. The best thing about this set, is the flexibility they give you in lesson delivery. Each part of the bundle includes a Music Appreciation Worksheet PDF as well as a Google Slides version for teaching your music students online and for distance learning. You can choose to use each one set in its entirety or you can choose to only use a small section of the resource at a time. Link to the Pop Singer Music Appreciation Worksheet Bundle here For each of the 24 Pop Singers in the Bundle are: 3 Biography Research Pages. 2 Music Genre or Style Research Pages Links to 5 different songs that the Pop Singer is famous for Elements of Music song analysis question pages for Dynamics, Harmony, Melody, Timbre & Performing Media, Rhythm, Structure or Form, Texture and Tonality. A printable PDF version for face to face learning A Google Slides version for distance learning online The best thing about this resource are the many ways you can use and include it on your music appreciation lessons, you can do as little or as much as you want, and you can easily differentiate for your students. Some of the different ways to use these worksheets is listed below Use as a part of a face to face in class lesson on a Pop Singer or Element of Music Use as a music center in a face to lesson Use as a music appreciation assignment or project Use as part of your music appreciation class assessment Use with your distance learning music classes in Google Classroom Use as part of a Music Choice Board Collate some of the different Pop Singers together as a Music Appreciation and Listening Journal and end of course assessment These Pop Singer Music Appreciation worksheets are also a great way to develop music literacy and vocabulary skills. You could ask your students to use the Pop Singer Worksheets as a starting point for analysis, then the students use their answers to write a Music Appreciation Essay. Try using these paragraph writing resources to help your students complete this type of writing activity – Music P.E.E.L. Paragraph Writing OR Music T.X.X.X. C. Paragraph Writing.
