Our little guys need to hear the word that's being said, repeat the word the way it sounds, and find the letters that make these sounds. The words you may want to practice are: LD End mixtures: fold, old, said, cold, Bald end mixtures: melt, duvet, belt, screw, salt, LF end mixtures: golf, wolf, shelf, elf, selfLK end mixture: talk, yolk, chalk, milk, walkLP End mixtures: help, gulpEnding mixture of worksheetsHow you spell these fun words, you probably noticed that when and l, where you heard all the sounds And that o did not issue a short about sound when it was with l. Knowing that our children need to practice reading these different sounds, I placed all the words with and on one side, and words with o on another page. In this way, they could focus on these words in isolation and comfortably satisfied with the sound that these words make and about. Fortunately, the rest of the vowels sound a short vowel, so they shuffle through the rest of the pages. All your little ones have to do is read the word and choose the right picture. Instead of using bingo daubers to complete these free endings that can be printed, you can also choose simply to color the correct image, laminate and use the dry erase mark to reusable in your class ltearcy center, or use manipulatively to identify the correct answer without marking the page.
